

COMPASS Program K-12 Blended Learning

Join A Family of Learners

Navigate students join a family of learners where everyone belongs. The COMPASS program is a two day face to face learning program that offers a balance of independent learning, social interaction, and an interface of technology that maintains a personal connection.

Day 1 provides students with an opportunity for social interaction with their peers, connection with their teacher, and instruction that's focused on core competencies in communications, language arts, numeracy, social studies and science.

Day 2 provides a focus on experiential learning in the community centred around three themes: the fine arts, new technologies, and place-based learning.

Learning Naturally

The primary goal of the COMPASS program is to build personalized learning experiences for every child. An initial discovery process identifies each child's "sparks", which are the topics and learning styles that hold their attention, animate their interest, and provide deeper meaning to their lives.

Through a personalized Student Learning Plan (SLP), the parents, teacher and student develop a learning relationship that applies these sparks to core and experiential learning activities. Parents are co-facilitators in a home learning environment and support access to resources and community opportunities. Teachers provide student reviews, arranged at regular intervals to document progress, as required by the Ministry of Education.

Your Child is Unique

Every child has a unique spark for learning that motivates them to want to know more. By engaging this natural curiosity, parents and teachers can ignite and fuel an ongoing passion for learning and discovery that can happen anywhere, any time, and at any pace. A personalized learning plan invites them to explore ideas that are interesting and relevant to their family's lifestyle, their community, and their world, while meeting the learning outcomes identified by the BC Ministry of Education.

- Ask questions and identify creative solutions
- Engage in discussions about big ideas
- Deepen their understanding by making personal connections
- Work collaboratively with their peers
- Recognize their own value and the value of others
- Apply what they learn to real world issues and challenges
